History of Belawade village

History of Belawade Village:- There are remains of a palace built by Ramaji Rautrao Dhamale Deshmukh in the 16th century in Belawade, Taluka Mulshi. Dhamale Deshmukh was a chieftain of the Delhi court in the 15th century. Due to a rebellion in the south, he acquired 700 villages from here in Konkan, namely Chaul. Later, he climbed the ghat from there and settled in Mulshi. Deshmukh of eighty-nine villages was acquired by Ramaji. He was a chieftain of Adil Shah. Later, when Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj established Swarajya, Ramaji Rautrao Dhamale Deshmukh incorporated the fort Korigad (Korai Gad) under his control into Swarajya. Ramaji Rao had defeated the Mughal chieftain Raibaghan, for which he received the title of Rautrao. It is mentioned in the Jedhe Shakavali that Dhamale Deshmukh had killed one and a half thousand Pathans in this battle along with Afzal Khan and was felicitated by the Maharaj with a paan of honor. There is a palace at Belawade, unfortunately today this palace is deteriorating day by day. Shankarrao alias Appasaheb Dhamale Deshmukh had tried to restore this palace in the year 1950. Shere village is the route from Dhamale Deshmukh's Mulgaon to Bandra, Belawade, Ambadvet, Sangvi.

Also, in the village of Belawade, there is a Sanjeev Samadhi of Shri Ghaware Maharaj. There is a Devrai of Ajan tree in the village.
